To Whom It May Concern

Our firm retained Chris in 2016 based on our research about his ability to serve as an expert witness regarding his experience, background and education in high school athletics.

More specifically, we were very impressed with Mr. Fore's ability to serve as an expert in regards to high school football. Our firm was hired by a school district in California to represent them in a case involving a serious injury to a high school student during football practice. We had several discussions on the phone with Mr. Fore about his experience and education regarding football injuries and prevention. What impressed me was his ability to inform our team about the expectations for California coaches as they pertain to both local and national rules and certifications.

It was very evident that Mr. Fore is up to date on best practices, certifications, and rules governing high school athletics on both the local and national levels. He consults coaches and schools on the national level about their football programs, and is a current high school football coach himself, having coached more than fifteen years, including eight as a head coach. Not only does he bring this strong football background, but Mr. Fore has been an Athletic Director as well. Mr. Fore's expert testimony was an essential component to our successful summary judgment motion.

I highly recommend Mr. Chris Fore to your firm if you're looking for an expert witness in the field of high school athletics. He was diligent in communication, professional in manner and very knowledgeable regarding our case because of his attention to detail when reviewing the depositions.

Please feel free to contact me directly if you have any further questions.

Very truly yours,
